New Feats

Akimbo Master

You master the art of wielding two firearms at once. You gain the following benefits:

- You can wield two sidearms at once, even if they do not have the light property.
- You can draw or holster two sidearms when you would normally be able to draw or holster only one.
- Before you make an attack roll, you can choose to fire both guns as part of a single attack, taking a -5 penalty. If the attack hits, roll damage for each of your firearms and add +5 to each damage roll. If you use this feature for any of your attacks, you cannot use your bonus action to make an attack with your offhand firearm in the same turn.

Artilleryman

Prerequisite: 16th level, Strength 15 or higher
You have the strength and control required to use large and unwieldy firearms more effectively. If you are wielding a weapon with the bulky property, you do not need to use your bonus action to stabilize the weapon. Additionally, if you are able to make more than one attack wih the Attack action, you may ignore the limitation to one attack per Attack action normally imposed by the bulky property.

Bayoneteer

Prerequisite: Proficiency with firearms
You have mastered the art of fighting with weapons attached to the barrel of your gun. You gain proficiency with improvised weapons if you don't have it already, and if you make an attack with a weapon attached to the barrel of your gun, you may add a +2 bonus to the damage roll.

Additionally, if you would be hit with a melee attack, you can use your reaction to assume a parrying stance with the bayonet, adding your proficiency bonus to your AC against a single melee attack that would hit you, potentially causing the attack to miss.

Close Quarters Shooter

You have trained yourself in the delicate art of using ranged weapons in close quarters combat. You get the following benefits:

- Being within 5 feet of a hostile creature doesn't impose disadvantage on your ranged attack rolls.
- If you would have disadvantage on a ranged attack roll you make against a creature within 10 feet of you, instead you do not. However, you cannot gain advantage on that attack roll.
- You can use your reaction to make an opportunity attack with a ranged weapon. Your reach when trying to determine if a creature's movement can trigger this reaction is 5 feet.

Dirty Fighting

A side effect of a less than honorable upbringing, you are willing to do anything to win a fight. Anything is fair game, from a clever distraction to a well placed kick to the unmentionables. After all, all's fair in love and war. You gain the following benefits:

- Increase your Strength or Dexterity by 1, to a maximum of 20.
- You gain proficiency with improvised weapons.
- When a creature fails to hit you with a melee weapon attack, if the attack missed by 5 or more, you can use your reaction to make one unarmed strike or improvised weapon attack against the creature that missed you. The attack deals no damage, but can cause the target to fall prone or suffer some other ill effect agreed upon by both you and the DM.

Draconic Fervor

Prerequisite: Kobold, 4th level
The blood of the mightiest of dragons fills your veins. Choose one of the following benefits:

- Breath Weapon. You gain the ability to cast the spell dragon's breath, targeting yourself. Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you complete a long rest.
- Dragon Claws. Your fingers end with sharp claws that can be used in your unarmed strikes. Your claw attack deals slashing damage equal to 1d4 + your Strength modifier, instead of the bludgeoning damage normal for an unarmed strike.
- Firemind. When you use your Gear-smith racial feature to create items, you can create a number of them up to your Intelligence modifier (minimum 2). Additional items beyond these require a DC 20 artisan's tools check.

You may take this feat multiple times, choosing a different benefit each time.

Dueling Expert

Prerequisite: Duelist fighting style or Gun Duelist gun tactic
You have mastered the art of dueling with gun and sword, and gain the following benefits:

- If you have a one-handed melee weapon in one hand and a light firearm in the other, when you make an attack with either of those weapons, you can use your bonus action to attack with the other.
- Wielding a light firearm or finesse melee weapon in your offhand does not count against the Dueling fighting style or Gun Duelist gun tactic.
- You can ignore the loading time and reload action for a light firearm in one hand if you are holding nothing in the other hand.

Energy Blast

Prerequisite: Dromite
Your connection to the Planes of Energy is more acute than those of your brethren. You may use this feature to cast chaos bolt without expending a spell slot. When you do, you do not select a damage type using one of the d8s; instead, the damage dealt is of the type specified in your Energy Resistance racial feature.

You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier (minimum 1). You regain any expended uses after completing a long rest.

Firearms Enthusiast

You have trained in the proper stance and technique to effectively wield a variety of firearms. You gain the following benefits:

- Increase your Strength or Dexterity by 1, to a maximum of 20.
- You gain proficiency in four firearms. At least one of these firearms must be a sidearm, and at least one of these must be a longarm.

Fossilized

Prerequisite: Awakened undead (skeleton)
You have researched the necromantic magics holding you together, and have altered them to reinforce your body against certain types of attacks. You gain resistance to piercing and slashing damage. However, you gain a vulnerability to bludgeoning damage.

Ghostly Magic

Prerequisite: Awakened undead (ghost)
Your soul is especially powerful, and you may channel its power into a semblance of mortal magic.

When you take this feat, choose either Charisma or Wisdom. You may use this feature up to three times to cast a spell from the following list: blink, catapult, charm person, fear, and invisiblity (self only). Use the chosen ability as your spellcasting ability for these spells.

You regain unspent uses of this feature at the end of a long rest.

Gremlin

You're particularly good at seeking out and finding the weakness in gears, drive mechanisms, and the like, and can confidently disable a mechanical device with a single fell swoop, if you so desire.

As a bonus action, you may make an Intelligence (Investigation) check to attempt to identify the weakness of a mechanical device or construct. If you can find such a weakness, you may make a Sleight of Hand check, attack roll, or other similar means to attempt to take advantage of this weakness, at the DM's discretion.

Handled with Care

You understand the delicate machinery and overall limitations of primitive firearms and know how to handle them to avoid excessive wear, even in the heat of combat. When you make more than two attacks with primitive firearms during your turn, the firearm's misfire count does not increase by 1.

Hooligan

With the skills you have obtained with concealed weaponry, you can turn an ordinary encounter into an assassination. Once per encounter, if you have not taken an action or bonus action to attack, and if you are carrying a weapon with the hidden property that you are proficient with, you can use your bonus action to deploy it and make an attack with it. If you do not already have the Sneak Attack class feature, then the attack deals an extra 2d6 damage.

Lucky Card

Prerequisite: Charisma 13 or higher
You have stumbled across a card that seems to have a magical connection to you. This card is a spell card, meant for a card master, though you show some aptitude for card magic.

If you have no levels in the card master class, you learn the cantrip card throw, using Charisma as your spellcasting ability for it. Additionally, when you take this feat, choose a 1st level spell from the card master spell list. You can use your lucky card to cast this spell. Once it is used, you can't use it again until after you complete a long rest.

If you have this feat, then gain a level in the card master class, or if you are already a card master when you take this feat, you do not gain the benefits listed above. Instead, when constructing your deck, add 5 points to your Deck Points total.

Mechanical Advantage

Prerequisite: one or more limbs replaced with a prosthetic
You have turned your unfortunate circumstance into a mark of pride. You gain the following benefits:

- When grappling another creature of your size or smaller, you may use your action to lock your prosthetic limb in place, forcing their Athletics or Acrobatics check to escape your grapple to be made at disadvantage.
- When grappled by another creature, you may use your action to disengage your prosthetic limb from your body and automatically succeed the attempt to escape grapple. (You will, of course, need to retrieve your prosthetic afterwards...)
- If your prosthetic is concealed, you may choose to reveal it to a creature and gain advantage on a single Persuasion or Intimidation check against that creature. Whether the check succeeds or fails, you cannot use this benefit against that creature again.

Meticulous

You keep yourself neatly groomed, your manners are perfect, and your affairs are always in order. If you spend at least one hour after a long rest to prepare yourself for the rest of the day, you may choose one skill from either Investigation, Persuasion, or Survival. You get advantage on checks using the chosen skill until your next long rest, provided you stay within the limits of a city or other sort of civilization.

Modern Medic

Prerequisite: proficiency with doctor's tools or pharmacist's supplies
You have studied medical journals and kept an ear out regarding the latest advancements in health care, and are quick to apply your studies to your adventuring career. Your incredible skill with the tools of your trade grant you the following benefits:

- At the end of any short or long rest, you can make a DC 15 Wisdom (doctor's tools) or Wisdom (pharmacist's supplies) check. On a success, you create a healer's kit good for one use.
- As an action, you can stabilize a dying creature. When you do so, make a DC 15 Wisdom (doctor's tools) or Wisdom (pharmacist's supplies) check; on a success, the creature also regains 1d4 hit points.

Morbid Curiosity

You grew up hearing tales of Victorian horrors, and instead of recoiling in fear, you developed an interesting fascination with them. You get the following benefits:

- You gain proficiency in the History skill.
- You get advantage on any Intelligence (Investigation) check used to determine the presence of an aberration, monstrosity, or undead creature.
- You have advantage on saving throws against any effect that would cause you to become charmed or frightened, so long as that effect is coming from an aberration, monstrosity, or undead.

Mounted Shooting

While you are riding a mount or driving a vehicle and aren't incapacitated, you gain the following benefits:

- You get a +1 bonus to attack rolls with firearms.
- Being within 5 feet of a hostile creature when making an attack roll with a firearm does not impose disadvantage on the attack roll as long as the creature's size is smaller than your mount.
- You have advantage on attack rolls against any unmounted creature smaller than your mount within your firearm's normal range.

Musketeer

You have trained yourself to specialize in the use of weapons that require time to reload after each shot. You gain the following benefits:

- Increase your Dexterity score by 1, to a maximum of 20.
- You gain proficiency in firearms with the loading property, and may ignore the loading property of those firearms when using them.
- After making an attack with a firearm with the loading property using the Attack action, you may use your bonus action to make a second attack with that weapon.

Pistol Whipper

You are skilled in using guns as melee weapons, on the off-chance that using them for their intended function is ill-advised. Increase your Strength or Dexterity by 1, to a maximum of 20.

Additionally, you are now considered proficient with firearms you use as melee weapons. Light firearms deal 1d6 bludgeoning damage and are considered finesse weapons, two-handed firearms deal 1d8 bludgeoning damage, and heavy firearms deal 1d10 bludgeoning damage.

Riot Breaker

Prerequisite: Proficiency with shields
You have become quite adept at crowd control using your shield. As long as you are wielding your shield, whenever you make an attack against a creature, you are considered to have half cover if that creature attacks you. Additionally, you gain resistance to nonmagical bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage dealt by that creature.

The benefits of this feature last until the start of your next turn.

Scattershot Master

You have mastered getting the most effect out of firearms with the scatter property. You get the following benefits:

- When you make a scatter attack, if three or more enemies are in the affected area, add +1 to the attack roll.
- When you roll a 1 or 2 on a damage die for a scatter attack, you can reroll the die and must use the new roll.
- You can load all of the ammunition for shell loading firearms with the scatter property using a bonus action.

Shar's Favor

Prerequisite: Shadar-kai
The tenebrous magics of the Shadowfell surge within your body. You gain the ability to cast darkness, without using any material components. You can use this ability a number of times equal to your Constitution modifier (minimum 1). You regain any spent uses whenever you complete a long rest.

Superior Marksman

You have perfected the art of the patient, precise kill. When you wield a heavy firearm that has either a telescopic sight or longshot sight equipped on it, you get the following benefits:

- If you use a bonus action to steady your aim with your firearm, you can choose to make an attack roll that can neither have advantage or disadvantage. On a hit, if you roll a 1 or 2 on a damage die, you can reroll that die and must use the new roll.
- If you make a ranged attack roll with advantage, you can reroll one of the attack rolls once.

Tinkerer

You are inquisitive and insightful when it comes to looking at and modifying a device's inner workings. You gain the following benefits:

- Increase your Intelligence score by 1, to a maximum of 20.
- You become proficient with tinker's tools. If you were already proficient, you can apply double your proficiency bonus to tinker's tools checks to work with a mechanical object.
- If working on an item or performing a crafting task during a long rest, you can forego the benefits of that rest to "take 20" on a given tinker's tools check, rather than make a roll. You add your proficiency and skill bonuses to this result. If you use this feature, you gain the benefits of a short rest instead.

Vengeful Blade

Prerequisite: Awakened undead (revenant)
Fate has seen fit to further equip you for your quest to right the wrong that felled you. You may use this feature as a reaction to get advantage on an attack roll you make against the target of your revenge, or to cause an attack roll made by that creature against you to be made at disadvantage.

You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier (minimum 1). You regain any expended uses after completing a long rest.

Vicious Augmentation

Prerequisite: one or more limbs replaced with a prosthetic, proficiency with tinker's tools (or access to a qualified craftsman)
You've modified your prosthetic limb, making it into a viable item in melee. When you take this feat, choose one of the following benefits:

- Mental Link. Choose Charisma or Wisdom. Your unarmed strikes and melee weapon attacks may use the chosen ability in place of Strength or Dexterity when determining bonuses to attack and damage rolls.
- Power Fist (Arm/hand prosthetic only). The damage of your unarmed strike increases to 1d6 + your Strength modifier. Additionally, before you take the Attack action on your turn, you may take a bonus action to charge power in your fist. If you do so, the damage of your unarmed strike improves again to 1d12 + your Strength modifier until the end of your turn.
- Spring-Recoiled Sprint (Leg/foot prosthetic only). When a creature misses an attack against you, you may use your reaction to move up to 10 feet without provoking an attack of opportunity.

You may take this feat up to twice, choosing a different benefit each time.

Wheelman

Prerequisite: proficiency with land vehicles
You can tame a powerful car or a roaring steam train with the same ease that a druid can calm an animal. You get advantage on any skill checks required to maneuver a land vehicle out of danger or cause it to stop entirely, so long as the vehicle itself has mechanical controls that have not been completely disabled.

Will of Iron

Prerequisite: suffered and recovered from long-term madness or insanity
You have seen things beyond mortal understanding and lived to tell the tale. You now remain resolute when facing these dangers again. You have advantage on Charisma and Wisdom saving throws to resist madness-inducing effects.
Additionally, if you are afflicted with a long-term madness effect, you can make a Wisdom saving throw to cure yourself of the effect every 24 hours. The DC of this saving throw starts at either 15 or the DC of the effect that inflicted madness upon you, whichever is higher, and reduces by 1 for every subsequent failed save.